and

- You don't already have a bachelor's degree upon the start of the academic year of your bachelor's programme, and you don't already have a master's degree upon the start of the academic year of your master's programme from a government-funded programme in the Netherlands.
- Students who are attending a bachelor's programme and who already completed a bachelor's degree (or a degree equivalent to bachelor's level) after 1 August 1991 in the Netherlands, will pay the institution tuition fee. Students who are attending the master's programme Game Technology, Media Innovation, Tourism Destination Management or Leisure Studies and who already completed a master's degree (or a degree equivalent to master's level) after 1 August 1991 in the Netherlands, will pay the institution tuition fee.

An exception to this rule is applicable to students who already started on their second course of study before having completed their first course of study. They will be allowed to continue to study at the lower statutory tuition fee;

and

- You are enrolled on a government-funded programme at Breda University of Applied Sciences.

If you do not comply with all of the above-mentioned conditions, you will have to pay the institution tuition fee.

If at some point during the academic year you cease to comply with the conditions regarding nationality, Breda University of Applied Sciences may charge you the higher institution tuition fee after all.

The government determines annually the amount of the statutory tuition fees. The amount is equal to all educational institutions. Annually, the statutory fee is indexed.

2. Half tuition fees for the first year of higher education

The halving of the first year of tuition fees applies to every student who:

- in or after academic year 2019-2020 for the first time starts with a study program at a government-funded university of applied sciences or university;
- will do a Bachelor's degree or associate degree program;
- complies with the provisions under 1.

3. Higher statutory tuition fee Creative Business/Media and Entertainment Management programme

Within the framework of the 'special feature of small-scale intensive education' Breda University of Applied Sciences is allowed to apply 100% selection for the degree programme in Creative Business/Media & Entertainment Management in combination with an increase of statutory tuition fees as, stated in the Tuition Fee Regulations

The halving of the tuition fee only applies to the statutory part of the tuition fee, if the student meets the conditions mentioned under Article 2. The amount of tuition fee above the statutory fee will not be halved.

4. Tuition fee executive masters Media Innovation

The annual fee for the executive masters Media Innovation that starts in March in Hilversum, will be calculated pro rata over 6 months academic year 2019-2020 and 6 months academic year 2020-2021, respectively 6 months academic year 2019-2020 and 6 months academic year 2020-2021

5. Institution tuition fee

The institution fees for the bachelor and premaster programmes are based upon the statutory fees plus the amount of government funding per student.

The institution fee for the premaster Leisure and Tourism Studies is equal to the statutory fee.

The institution fee for the academic bachelor in Tourism (joint degree) of Breda University of Applied Sciences has been made equal to the institution tuition fee of Wageningen University.

The institution fee for the master's programmes is indexed by a percentage equal to the increase of the institution tuition fee for the bachelor's programmes.

6. Extension fee for delayed completion of master's degree

If a student is unable to complete his or her master's degree within the specified course duration, the student may apply for an extension of his/her enrolment period with the management team of the course programme. An extension typically comprises one extra graduation opportunity. A fee will be charged for an extension, as stated in the Tuition Fee Regulations.

This extension fee only applies to the post-initial master's programme in Imagineering.

7. Reduction or exemption of tuition fees for second, simultaneous, enrolment

While attending a bachelor's or master's degree programme you can take courses of another study programme or do a complete second study programme (at the same education institution or another one), as long as you have not yet completed a degree.

You will not be charged an additional tuition fee on top of the statutory fee already paid for the first bachelor's or master's programme.

Enrolment on account of enrolment with other institution

Exemption from or reduction on account of enrolment with another institution only applies if statutory tuition fees are paid, not if institution tuition fees are paid.

Enrolment on account of second enrolment with Breda University of Applied Sciences

Students enrolled on more than one study programme at Breda University of Applied Sciences, will only pay the tuition fee once. This applies to the statutory fee as well as the institution fee. In situations of this sort, the highest tuition fee will be charged.

This rule only applies to bachelor's and associate degree programmes and to the master's programmes of Game Technology, Media Innovation, Tourism Destination Management and Leisure and Tourism Studies. This rule does not apply to the post-initial master's programme in Imagineering.

8. Refund of tuition fee

In the case of premature termination of enrolment on a study programme for which the statutory tuition fee is due, the student will be entitled to a refund of the tuition fee on the months in which he/she is no longer enrolled. Tuition fee refunds will not be granted if the date of the termination of enrolment is 30 June or later.

Breda University of Applied Sciences also applies this refund scheme for the institution tuition fees for bachelor's or associate degree enrolments and for enrolments on the master's programmes of Game Technology, Media Innovation, Tourism Destination Management and Leisure and Tourism Studies.

Students of post-initial master's programmes in Imagineering are not entitled to a refund.

9. Exam fee for 'extraneous' students

The exam fee for 'extraneous' students will be determined by the Executive Board of Breda University of Applied Sciences on a case-by-case basis.

10. Administration costs

The tuition fee can be paid all at once or in multiple instalments. If the fee is paid in instalments, students will be charged a once-only administrative fee of €24.

11. Reservation

The tuition fee stated on the digital direct debit form in Studielink is subject to change. A correction may be applied if, after verification, it turns out that you fall into a different category than initially assumed.

12. Unforeseen cases

Cases not provided for by these regulations will be dealt with by the Executive Board.
