1.3 Course information

This course program focuses on leisure taking place in cities and all the facets playing a role- looking from a social, economic and spatial perspective in many different contexts. This could go from a transformation of an old industrial site into a new vibrant cultural hotspot, via a cultural festival which links to the identity of a city to daily leisure in neighbourhoods in skateboard parks, community centres or small theatres. The city provides a dynamic context for leisure activities in all kind of areas- such as culture, sports, events and hospitality.

In this specialization we pay attention to subjects such as vision, concepting, implementation and community development. Communication, stakeholders, wellbeing of residents and a sense of place are important key words within Urban life & placemaking.
