Sibelicious

Sibelicious is a learning company where you can enjoy tasteful food at a reasonable price while our students - the facility and hotel managers of the future - practice their hospitality skills. Sibelicious is accommodated in a monumental building at the campus of Breda University of Applied Sciences. You are more than welcome to come and have a taste and toast!

International learning community

In our learning company we prepare our students for managerial roles in the hospitality industry and give them the opportunity to combine practical knowledge and skills with a solid theoretical background. This implies that all our services are subject to availability and that we strive to align every booking with the educational goals for the students in our training facilities. The language of communication in our international learning company is English. All services are closed during school holidays.

In our learning company our second-year students are the managers, completely responsible for their facilities in terms of preparation, execution and evaluation, as well as financial forecast and results. First-year students are the operational staff, responsible for day-to-day operations. Together they ensure that your dinner, lunch, drink or meeting becomes a pleasant experience!
